EMC Board analyzes power usage in meeting

YOUNG HARRIS – In January, the 52,000-plus customers of the Blue Ridge Mountain EMC helped the company set a new peak demand record for the most power used in a given hour at 229 megawatts.

The enormous energy consumption of that one hour of power in early January reflected the sustained cold temperatures – as few as 3 degrees at times – during the wintry months of 2018.

Members of the BRMEMC Board of Directors discussed this and other items in their monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 13.

Many residents experience an unwelcome surge in their energy bills in the wintertime, which can be enough to deter some folks from continuously running their heat.

However, just as good and gas heating costs go up in winter, so does the cost of power in homes with electric heat, simply because people use more to keep their homes heated.

The EMC gets its power from the Tennessee Valley Authority, which set a record of its own in January.

“When arctic temperatures sweep through the area, residential and business heating units work overtime to maintain the indoor temperatures desired by the occupants,” per a TVA news release. “Not only do the heating units run for longer periods of time, but some units also switch on internal heating elements to produce additional heat.

“This causes the demand for electricity to increase substantially during these times of abnormally cold weather. For the Tennessee Valley Authority, this places a strain on their generating facilities to produce enough electricity to supply their 9 million-plus customers in seven different states.

“On Jan. 17, as the average valley temp dipped to 12 degrees, TVA set an all-time record for supplying 706 million kilowatt-hours of energy over a 24-hour period. The peak demand for that day was 31,639 megawatts, which was their 12th-highest winter peak on record. As a point of reference, this amount of energy would supply Las

Union County Sole Commissioner Lamar Paris welcomed several guests in the March 15 regular county meeting.

U.S. Navy Veteran Ray Myers of Blairsville attended the meeting with his daughter, Amy Miles, and other relatives to accept a unique honor as presented by Commissioner Paris.

“I have a very special presentation to make tonight to make tonight to Amy Miles,” said Paris. “Amy is the mother of Pvt. Caleb Miles, who just recently graduated from Marine Boot Camp on Feb. 23, 2018, Parris Island, South Carolina.

“Also, Amy is the daughter of Ray Myers. Of course, Ray is the grandfather of Caleb Miles. I mention this, because on (Feb. 10) of this year, I attended a Quilts of Valor ceremony at the Historic Courthouse in which Ray Myers was presented a quilt.”

In honor of Pvt. Miles’ commitment to serve his country as a U.S. Marine, the office of Congressman Doug Collins coordinated with Paris to present Miles’ family with an American flag flown in D.C.

“This is to certify that the accompanying flag was flown over the United States capital on Feb. 23, 2018,” said Paris, reading the flag’s documentation. “This flag was flown at the request of the Hon. Doug Collins, member of Congress, to honor Pvt. Caleb counties since 1995, and the organization built its first home in 2000.

So far, the local leg of the organization has built 17 houses in Towns and Union counties, making one house each year since they started working around the two counties.

There are a set of prerequisites that must be met for a family to obtain a home from the organization.

One of these requirements includes an agreement from the family to the organization that states the family must volunteer or help the organization in a variety of ways, which may include:

Helping with the construction of a house, working in the store as a volunteer, or for those who cannot do much physical labor, they may be given the opportunity to serve lunch for volunteers that are working with the construction.

Another requirement to receive the housing from the organization is the ability for the family to repay a mortgage.

“We do not give away homes,” said Thomas. “We provide people who could not walk into a bank for a mortgage with the opportunity to own a home and to pay the mortgage back.”

Habitat for Humanity works with the families and helps teach them different strategies to properly balance and budget their finances.

The organization is currently in the process of selecting its next family for a project.

There are a limited number of quality rental houses
